UAE intercepts Houthi attack, Saudi Arabia reports two injured by fallen missile

DUBAI: The United Arab Emirates intercepted and destroyed two Houthi ballistic missiles targeting the Gulf country on Monday with no casualties, its defence ministry said, following a deadly attack a week earlier.

For more than six years, the Houthis have been battling a Saudi-led coalition that includes the UAE, repeatedly carrying out cross-border missile and drone attacks on Saudi Arabia, and launching an unprecedented assault on the UAE on Jan 17. “The remnants of the intercepted ballistic missiles fell in separate areas around Abu Dhabi,” the ministry said, adding it was taking necessary protective measures against all attacks. UAE newspaper The National cited residents reporting flashes in the sky over the capital around 4:30am. Monday’s attack was the second on UAE soil since last week’s strike that hit a fuel depot in Abu Dhabi, killing three people, and causing a fire near its international airport. Houthi-run Al Masirah television said the group would announce within hours the details of a “wide military operation” against Saudi Arabia and the UAE.

Saudi state media early on Monday said the coalition intercepted a ballistic missile, with remnants damaging workshops and vehicles in the south of the kingdom. It said late on Sunday that a ballistic missile fell in the south, injuring two foreigners and causing damage in an industrial area.

Meanwhile, Yemen rebels threatened to ramp up their attacks on the UAE after two ballistic missiles were shot down over Abu Dhabi.

The Houthis said they targeted Abu Dhabi’s Al Dhafra air base as well as “vital and important” locations in the Dubai area.

The attack “achieved its objectives with high accuracy”, rebel military spokesperson Yahya Saree said in a televised statement.

“We are ready to expand the operation during the next phase and confront escalation with escalation,” he added. The Yemen conflict is largely seen as a proxy war between Saudi Arabia and Iran.

The United Nations, which along with the United States has struggled to engineer a ceasefire for Yemen, voiced concern over escalations and called for maximum restraint by both sides. The Saudi-led coalition has ramped up air strikes on what it describes as Houthi targets in Yemen. At least 60 people were killed in a strike on a temporary detention centre in northern Saada province on Friday, and about 20 were killed in the Houthi-held capital of Sanaa in an operation on Tuesday. —Reuters

Turkish lira dips, minister sees more forex converted to lira

ANKARA: The lira

was slightly weaker on Monday after Turkey’s finance minister was cited as saying he expected some $10 billion of forex bank deposits to be converted to lira due to a new law exempting such deposits from corporate tax. Sources also cited Finance Minister Nureddin Nebati as saying he expected inflation to rise to about 40 per cent in the months ahead, lower than most estimates, and that no interest rate hikes were planned by the central bank.

At 0542 GMT, the lira traded at 13.49, weakening 0.15pc from Friday’s close of 13.47. It tumbled 44pc last year after the central bank slashed its policy by 500 basis points to 14pc since September, but has steadied this month. Nebati met economists on Saturday and gave a presentation on Turkey’s economic model which he said aimed to solve the current account deficit problem, overcome the middle-income trap and lift Turkey up the global value chain. In a statement, his ministry also cited Nebati as saying that project banking would be accelerated and that value-added tax would be simplified. Turkey’s parliament last week approved a law under which lira deposits converted from forex under a scheme to support the currency will be exempt from corporate income tax on gains resulting from the conversion. Companies have some $90 billion worth of foreign currency bank de-
