

Advisories issued for protection of forest, wildlife during week-long heatwave in KP

PESHAWAR: Forest, Environment and Wildlife Department of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Saturday issued separate advisories for protection of forest and wildlife from severe heatwave due to be observed in the country in general and Khyber Pakhtunkhwa in particular for over a week. The National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA) and the Khyber Pakhtunkhwa government have jointly issued advisories on the situation of severe heatwave for one week starting from Sunday, May 8, 2022, on which the Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Forest Department has directed special measures for this period. According to notification, every concerned Conservator, Divisional Forest Officer and Wildlife Department officials will be personally responsible for implementation of the advisory on forests, nurseries, national parks, Peshawar Zoo and other zoos, pheasantries, wildlife parks etc. Forest department officials should direct field staff to keep hats and bottles of lemon and salt mixing and cover their heads with soaked cloth, wear loose clothing, drink water regularly and avoid direct exposure to direct sunlight wherever possible. The provision of first aid kits with the nearest health center identification and necessary assistance for heatstroke, dehydration should be arranged as much as possible at the place of actual deployment. Soft root system of plants in order to avoid any damage, it is advisable to make a proper watering schedule in the morning or in the evening. Priority of watering according to plant species - those who need more water such as Ornamental plants etc. should be preferred while defective, leaking water bowsers and pipes etc. should be repaired on emergency basis. Ensure the presence of staff on time, additional janitors temporarily where needed. It is also advised to refrain from sowing seeds in the planting area till the last week of June. Shade or bamboo shoots should be arranged with tube shifting of seeds in nurseries be stopped immediately and provision of shade should be made where possible. Similarly, wildlife crews are required to ensure regular replacement of drinking water in the respective water ponds, tubs, pots twice daily (morning and afternoon) to ensure availability of fresh water to animals and birds. Instructions have been issued to keep the water fountain provided at Bird Avenue at the zoo active so that the birds can bathe and soak themselves. Arrangements should be made to provide cages with shelter at the top and sides. Water should be sprinkled in the cages to ensure cooling of birds and animals and fans and coolers should be installed in animal houses and shelters for cooling purposes at the zoo. Medicines in case of illness mix in water. Provide juicy food such as fruits to feed specific animals and meet their body's water needs. Provide hats to protect the staff working in the Department of Wildlife Cages and facilities from the sun. Bottles of water should be provided to the staff for use in field duty and cold water facility should be provided to both the visitors and the staff through water points at different places. —APP

Glacial lake formed over Shisper Glacier bursts prior to normal duration

ISLAMABAD: A massive glacial lake outburst flood on Saturday occurred in Hunza District's Hassanabad Village after the glacial lake formed over Shisper Glacier started receding 5,000 Cusecs water while initiating the glacial melting prior to the normal duration. Remote Sensing Specialist at the International Centre for Integrated Mountain Development (ICIMOD) Dr Sher Mohammad told APP that the glacial lake size was 15 percent more than the recorded lake size for the past three years at the pre-outburst level of the glacial lake. Mohammad said the massive Glacial Lake Outburst Flood (GLOF) in Hunza from Shishpar glacier was mainly triggered due to abrupt temperature rise in the Northern Areas due to the prevailing heatwave phenomenon. He said the glaciers were melting at a faster pace mainly due to heatwave, adding, "in the past 20 days, there has been 40 percent increase in the Shisper glacier lake area due to expedited glacier melting after heatwave impacts gripped the Northern Areas as mostly glacial lakes are formed in May but it got developed one month ahead in April". "Not only are glacial lakes rapidly forming in them, but they are also appearing ahead of their normal time and bursting into floods", he added. Dr. Sher Mohammad in his research has revealed that lakes on at least five glaciers appeared prematurely in the month of April and some of them have erupted where the water was running faster than usual. "We have been able to record only five glacial lakes due to continuous clouds, which are increasing but the number could be much higher." He underscored that there were supraglacial lakes formed over vulnerable glaciers after rapid increase in temperatures and could become a lurking threat in the coming days as more increase in temperature would drive glacial flooding further. He said satellite reports and images of the five glacier lakes could indicate that other glaciers in the area could also pose a threat to the lakes. "This is not usually the case in April and glaciers and lakes are recorded in the month of June or later, but temperatures above five degrees Celsius can cause a number of natural disasters", he warned. Gilgit Baltistan and Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Disaster Management Authorities were informed in time to take preventive measures to cope with imminent threat of GLOF in the region. However, the Hunza district administration officials while talking in time disaster preparedness measures relocated the local masses from the vulnerable sites to safer and were not facing any threat due to GLOF. —APP

Unprecedented gusts expected to fan wildfires in New Mexico

MEXICO: Weather conditions described as potentially historic were on tap for New Mexico and for the next several days as hundreds of firefighters and a fleet of airplanes and helicopters worked feverishly to bolster lines around the largest fire burning in the US. Many families already have been left homeless and thousands of residents have evacuated due to flames that have charred large swaths of the Sangre de Cristo Mountains in northeastern New Mexico. Residents on the fringes of the shifting fire front were holding out hope that all the work done over recent days to clear brush, install sprinklers, run hose lines and use bulldozers to scrape lines will keep the fire from reaching the small city of Las Vegas and other villages to the north and south. "There's uncertainty and there's fear about how the winds are going to affect the fire from day to day," said Elmo Baca, chairman of the Las Vegas Community Foundation. "Once the people are evacuated out of an area, they can't go back, so they're just stuck worrying." The blaze has blackened more than 678 sq km over the last few weeks. The start of the conflagration has been traced in part to a preventive fire initiated by the US Forest Service in early April to reduce flammable vegetation. The blaze escaped control, merging with another wildfire of unknown origin. Nationwide, close to 5,180 sq km have burned so far this year, with 2018 being the last time this much fire had been reported across the country, according to the National Interagency Fire Center. And predictions for the rest of the spring do not bode well for the West, where long-term drought and warmer temperatures brought on by climate change have combined to worsen the threat of wildfire. Forested areas in southern New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado also saw an early start with blazes forcing evacuations and destroying homes last month. Incident Commander Dave Bales said firefighters working in northeastern New Mexico have been focused on protecting homes and other structures that hold generations of sacred memories. "It's hard when I see so many people displaced," he said, noting that many hugs have been shared around town. The crews have seen extreme wind events before that usually last a day, maybe two. But Bales said this event could last five or more days with gusts topping 80kph to 96kph. He also warned that flames could be carried up to a mile away. "This is an extreme wind event that is unprecedented," Bales said. —Reuters

UN Security Council, including Russia, expresses concern about Ukraine

UNITED NATIONS: The UN Security Council, including Russia, expressed "deep concern regarding the maintenance of peace and security of Ukraine" and backed efforts by the UN chief to find a peaceful solution in the body's first statement since Moscow's invasion. Security Council statements are agreed by consensus. The brief text adopted on Friday was drafted by Norway and Mexico. "The Security Council expresses deep concern regarding the maintenance of peace and security of Ukraine," it reads. "The Security Council recalls that all Member States have undertaken, under the Charter of the United Nations, the obligation to settle their international disputes by peaceful means." "The Security Council expresses strong support for the efforts of the Secretary-General in the search for a peaceful solution," reads the statement, which also requests UN chief Antonio Guterres brief the council again "in due course". Guterres welcomed the council support on Friday, saying he would "spare no effort to save lives, reduce suffering and find the path of peace". Guterres met with Russian President Vladimir Putin in Moscow and Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy in Kyiv last week. UN again trying to evacuate civilians from Ukraine's Mariupol. Russia violates ceasefire during evacuation operation. Diplomatic efforts seek to save Ukraine fighters in Mariupol; Zelenskyy His visits paved the way for joint United Nations and International Committee of the Red Cross operations that have evacuated some 500 civilians from Ukraine's port city of Mariupol and the besieged Azovstal steel plant in the past week. The Security Council statement was agreed despite a diplomatic tit-for-tat that has been escalating since Russia launched on Feb 24 what it calls a "special military operation" and what Guterres blasted as Russia's "absurd war". Russia vetoed a draft Security Council resolution on Feb 25 that would have deplored Moscow's invasion. China, the United Arab Emirates and India abstained from the vote. A council resolution needs nine votes in favor and no vetoes by the United States, Russia, China, France or Britain to pass. —AFP
