

Mushaal criticises Indian fascist regime for not providing basic detainee rights to Yasin Malik

ISLAMABAD: Chairperson of Peace and Culture Organization Mushaal Hussein Mullick has criticized the Indian fascist regime for not providing basic detainee rights to jailed Jammu and Kashmir Liberation Front leader Yasin Malik. Mushaal Mullick, who is also the wife of Yasin Malik, Wednesday in her message asked the Indian government for providing basic rights to Jailed JKLF Leader Yasin Malik.

She also asked the Modi regime to produce Yasin Malik physically in court as he wants to cross-examine the witnesses in the Air Force officers' case. JKLF Muhammad Yasin Malik on Wednesday demanded the court for a fair trial of the cases by allowing him physically witness the court hearings, and by letting him examine the witnesses by himself.

Mushaal said that Yasin Malik has been kept in solitary confinement and there are serious threats to his life. If Modi's regime did not meet the demands of her husband then he will start an indefinite hunger strike in jail from 22nd July and God forbid it can risk his life as well as organs as he is already in fragile health, she warned.

She further said that the fascist Modi regime has made all the fabricated cases against her husband to punish him just because he is the peaceful voice of the Kashmir freedom struggle. She also requested a special court to allow the physical appearance of her husband in a case related to the kidnapping of former chief minister Mufti Mohammed Sayeed's daughter Rubaiya. Mushaal also requested the Human Rights organizations to press India for providing basic rights to Yasin Malik and other Kashmiri leaders who are languishing in jails in different fabricated cases. —APP

Turkish Embassy observes 6th anniversary of a failed coup attempt

ISLAMABAD: The Turkish embassy in Islamabad on Thursday observed the sixth anniversary of the July 15, 2016, failed coup attempt that claimed 251 lives and wounded thousands.

Dr. Mehmet Paçaci, Ambassador of the Republic of Türkiye, addressing journalists about the 15 July failed coup attempt by FETO, said that it was the night when Turkish democracy was protected by the Turkish people themselves under the leadership of President Recep Tayyip Erdogan.

He said, "on July 15, the existence of Türkiye was in danger when FETO terrorist organization's followers attacked but Turkish citizens from all walks of life showed courage and rendered sacrifices to protect their democratic government and institutions. Ambassador said that the followers of FETO tried to assassinate the President of the Republic of Türkiye and attacked the Prime Minister's vehicle. They bombarded the Grand National Assembly.

"The Police Special Operations Center, the crucial counter-terrorism operational body, was bombed by fighter jets, killing 55 police officers and injuring hundreds on the spot", he added. Hundreds of civilians protesting the coup attempt in Ankara and Istanbul were shot dead, he informed.

He said that it was Fetullah Gülen's FETO, an organization that secretly worked in Türkiye for 40 years and its main goal was to take control of the state. For 40 years, this organization had brainwashed the country's children, brilliant minds in the name of educational institutions, and turned them against their own country. At the peak of their power, they controlled thousands of schools in Türkiye and more than eight hundred educational institutes worldwide. As civil servants or military personnel, FETO members' loyalty was not to the nation or to the state they served. They did not care about upholding the country, Ambassador added.

Ambassador Dr. Mehmet Paçaci further stated that July 15th was a desperate final move of Fetullah Gülen and his followers to keep their control and capture the state.

After July 15, 2016 coup attempt: The perpetrators of the 15th of July coup attempt have been brought to justice based on rule of law and fundamental rights and freedoms. A number of judicial processes are still ongoing, he added. The fight against FETO structures abroad is now among the top priorities of our country. Our main objective is to demonstrate and prove the fact that FETO also poses a threat to the security of all countries where it remains active, Ambassador informed the media.

Since FETO is present in around 160 countries, with thousands of schools, businesses, NGOs, and media houses. Various countries and international organizations have declared FETO as a terrorist organization. Moreover, FETO was declared a terrorist organization in the 43rd session of the Council of Foreign Ministers of the OIC held on 19

Sri Lanka protesters end occupation of official buildings

COLOMBO: Sri Lanka's anti-government demonstrators said on Thursday they were ending their occupation of official buildings, as they vowed to press on with their bid to bring down the president and prime minister in the face of a dire economic crisis.

Protesters overran President Gotabaya Rajapaksa's palace at the weekend, forcing him to flee to the Maldives on Wednesday, when activists also stormed the office of Prime Minister Ranil Wickremesinghe. Rajapaksa had promised to resign on Wednesday, but there was no announcement he had done so. The premier, whom Rajapaksa named as acting president in his absence, had demanded the evacuation of state buildings and instructed security forces to do "what is necessary to restore order".

"We are peacefully withdrawing from the Presidential Palace, the Presidential Secretariat and the Prime Minister's Office with immediate effect, but will continue our struggle," a spokeswoman for the protesters said. A top Buddhist monk supporting the campaign had earlier called for the more than 200-year-old presidential palace to be handed back to authorities and ensure its valuable art and artefacts were preserved. "This building is a national treasure and it should be protected," monk Omalpe Sobitha told reporters. "There must be a proper audit and the property given back to the state." Hundreds of thousands have visited the compound since it was opened out to the public after Rajapaksa fled and his security guards backed down.

In a televised address after thousands of people captured his office in Colombo, Wickremesinghe declared: "Those who go to my office want to stop me from discharging my responsibilities as acting president. "We can't allow fascists to take over. That is why I declared a nationwide emergency and a curfew," he added.

The curfew was lifted at dawn on Thursday, but police said a soldier and a constable were injured in overnight clashes with protesters outside the national parliament. The attempt on the legislature was beaten back, unlike at other locations where the protesters had spectacular success. The main hospital in Colombo said about 85 people were admitted with injuries on Wednesday, with one man suffocating to death after being tear-gassed at the premier's office. Rajapaksa remained in the Maldives on Thursday, reportedly awaiting a private jet to take him, his wife Ioma and two bodyguards to Singapore. Local media reports said he had refused to take a commercial flight with other passengers after receiving a hostile reception when he arrived in the Maldives early on Wednesday. He was jeered and insults thrown at him as he walked out of the Velana International airport, and another group staged a demonstration in the capital in the afternoon urging Maldivian authorities not to allow him safe passage. Maldivian media reported that he had spent the night at the Waldorf Astoria Ithaafushi super luxury resort. They contrasted the opulent accommodation with the economic plight of his compatriots — four out of five Sri Lankans skipping meals because of the country's dire economic crisis. Security sources in Colombo said Rajapaksa was most likely to leave the Maldives on Thursday and his resignation could be announced after he was airborne. "The resignation letter has been prepared," the source told AFP. "No sooner he gives the green light, the speaker will issue it." Diplomatic sources said Rajapaksa's attempts to secure a visa to the United States had been turned down because he had renounced his US citizenship in 2019 before running for president. —AFP

Ex-finance minister Rishi Sunak tops first vote to be next UK PM

LONDON: Former finance minister Rishi Sunak won the biggest backing from Conservative lawmakers on Wednesday in the first vote to choose who will succeed Boris Johnson as party leader and British prime minister, while two more rivals were eliminated. Sunak, whose resignation as finance minister last week helped precipitate Johnson's fall, secured support from 88 of the party's 358 Members of Parliament (MPs), with junior trade minister Penny Mordaunt second with 67 votes and foreign minister Liz Truss third with 50.

Nadhim Zahawi, who took over as finance minister from Sunak last week, and former foreign minister Jeremy Hunt were knocked out after failing to get the required minimum of 30 votes. They join three other contenders who dropped out the day before. Those remaining — which also includes former equalities minister Kemi Badenoch, Attorney General Suella Braverman, Tom Tugendhat, chair of parliament's Foreign Affairs Committee — will go through to a second round on Thursday. Subsequent ballots will be held among the Conservative lawmakers, eliminating the candidate with the fewest votes each time, to whittle the field down to a final two by July 21. The new leader will then be chosen from those two by the 200,000 Conservative party members in the country at large, and be announced on September 5. While Sunak might be the most popular contender with his colleagues, a YouGov poll of nearly 900 party members found Mordaunt was the favourite, beating any of the others in a run-off. She had a huge lead over Sunak, who fared badly against almost all his rivals, and is now the bookmakers' favourite. —AFP

Trump steps up attacks on Musk for his 'sail into the sunset' remarks

WASHINGTON/SAN FRANCISCO: Donald Trump on Tuesday ratcheted up attacks on Tesla Inc CEO Elon Musk, after Musk said Trump was too old to become the next US president and Trump needed to "sail into the sunset."

The former US president said Musk would have "begged" him for government subsidies, in a message on his own social media app, Truth Social. "When Elon Musk came to the White House asking me for help on all of his many subsidised projects, whether it's electric cars that don't drive long enough, driverless cars that crash, or rocketships to nowhere, without which subsidies he'd be worthless and tell me how he was a big Trump fan and Republican, I could have said, 'drop to your knees and beg,' and he would have done it," Trump wrote. In response, Musk tweeted, "Lmaooo". Musk said on Monday, "I don't hate the man, but it's time for Trump to hang up his hat & sail into the sunset." Musk, who previously said he was leaning towards supporting Florida Governor Ron DeSantis for president in 2024, said DeSantis would easily defeat President Joe Biden in the election. Musk's remarks were in response to comments Trump made at a political rally on Saturday where he called Musk a "Bull*t artist" for claiming that he had never voted Republican until this June. He told me he voted for me," Trump said. In another development, Twitter sued Elon Musk for breaching the $44 billion contract he signed to buy the tech firm, calling his exit strategy "a model of hypocrisy," court documents showed.

The suit filed in the US state of Delaware urges the court to order the billionaire to complete his deal to buy Twitter, arguing that no financial penalty could repair the damage he has caused. "Musk's conduct simply confirms that he wants to escape the binding contract he freely signed, and to damage Twitter in the process," the lawsuit contended. "Twitter has suffered and will continue to suffer irreparable harm as a result of Musk's breaches." The social media company's shares edged up slightly in after-market trading when the news broke.

Legal experts and market analysts see Twitter as having a strong upper hand heading into court, Wedbush analyst Dan Ives said in a note to investors. "This will be a Game of Thrones battle in court with the fake account/bot issue front and center, but ultimately Twitter's board is holding Musk's feet to the fire to finish the deal at the agreed upon price," Ives said. "Overall this has been a black eye for Musk and horror movie for Twitter (and its employees) with no winners since the soap opera began in April." After weeks of threats, Musk last week pulled the plug on the deal, accusing Twitter of "misleading" statements about the number of fake accounts, according to a letter from his lawyers included in a US securities filing. —AFP

Man stabs wife to death in Karachi's Gulshan

KARACHI: A man stabbed to death his wife and then attempted to what police described as cook her body parts in a metal pot in their residence in Gulshan-i-Iqbal police said. The Mobina Town police recovered body parts of Nargis, who was in her mid-30s, in the pot, while her husband managed to escape. East SSP Syed Abdul Rahim Sherazi said suspect Ashiq, was a watchman at a private school and lived there along with his wife and six children. The suspect killed his wife and later cooked her body parts in a cauldron, the SSP said, adding that couple's daughter, who is around 16, narrated this terrifying incident to the police. Police Surgeon Dr Summaiya Syed said that the body was brought to the Dr Ruth Pfau Civil Hospital Karachi "with history of being cooked, allegedly". "A medical examination showed that the woman's body pieces were cut before being thrown in the cauldron. Her left leg was cleanly separated at knee joint as was left forearm at the elbow," she said, adding: "Samples from the body collected to rule out intoxication and for histopathology." Dr Syed said she saw the body and was "shocked" as it was one of the most terrible cases of her medico-legal career. —APP
